

Once upon a time there was a prince and a princess and they had a baby. One day when everyone in the kingdom was asleep, an evil witch took their baby. In the morning the princess should call the guards!! My baby is missing! The prince got the guards and some knights and they made a plan. "Let's go to the witch's ~~house~~^{casel}. The baby is sure to be there." So off they went. They got the baby and captured the evil witch "You are done for good!" When they got back to the casel, the princess was very happy to have her baby back. The witch was thrown in the dungeon and they all lived happily forever after. (except the witch of course!)